Our Story Four Generations of Wig Makers!

William Pardenkooper, born in 1878, started his wig making business in Germany with his wife Jessie, later supplying the Royal Family in England. Their daughter, Freda Dashwood, moved the business to South Africa during World War II. Freda's son, Mike, took over the business in 1968. Logan, Mike's son, spent decades working alongside his father and now, along with a caring and dedicated team, Logan continues to provide people with service excellence, sharing the wealth of knowledge passed on through generations and across continents!
